GET RESULTS THAT'S WHAT COUNTS

If a thing's any good, little girl, little boy,
If a thing's any good, it'll go.
Make a useful machine or mechanical toy,
If the thing's any good, it'll go.

Write a comedy droll, or a tragedy fell,
Or a tune for a fiddle and bow;
Or a sermon or story or anything well,
If the thing's any good, it'll go.

If your writin's worth readin', or tune's worth applause
It's as sure as the tide's ebb and flow,
That the world will demand it and buy it, because
If a thing's any good, it'll go.

Should the world turn you down when you covet hurrahs,
And you think it should take you in tow,
Please remember the cause lies in you, just because,
If a thing's any good, it'll go.

ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

The Columbus Meeting

The following letter which we print in full gives an account of the recent meeting which the Columbus Chapter held at the Southern Hotel, February 17.

February 26, 1921.

Dear Mr. Martzolf:

Today is the first opportunity I have had to write you the details of our banquet of last week. I hope you get the account in time to include some of it in your next alumni bulletin.

You wrote me a few days ago that Founders' Day ceremonies would prevent you from coming here for our meeting. Well, we almost had a Founders' Day banquet ourselves, except that the banquet came at night. We could call Dr. William H. Scott, of the class of 1862 and Thomas G. Wakefield of the class of 1868 "Founders," couldn't we?

To me it seemed most fitting that the dinner should be opened by an invocation given by the Rev. Thomas G. Wakefield, and that the principal address of the evening should be delivered by Dr. William E. Scott, for eleven years President of Ohio University. To me it seemed that these venerable men typified the spirit of the "oldest college west of the Alleghenies," and seemed to weld that spirit to the quiet enthusiasm of the hundred and twenty-five guests for a greater Ohio University.

And it was a happy evening for them. To quote the Dispatch: "In the course of the evening these 'silver grays' discovered a curious train of circumstances about themselves. In comparing their college years and their public service they found that both were born in September, 1840; that Dr. Scott from the time he entered the faculty of Ohio University until he completed twelve years of service as head of Ohio State University in 1895, was in such service forty-one years, and that Rev. Wakefield was in the active ministry for exactly the same period."

Before 7:30 the second floor parlors of the Southern Hotel were filled with groups of former students from the 62's to the 1920's. These groups changing and exchanging so interestingly seemed scarcely to notice that it was 8:00 o'clock before the big dining room doors opened. Only one confided to me that she had eaten only a light lunch, and that 8:00 o'clock was two hours past her regular dinner hour. What's in a name? She's a Y. M. C. A. secretary in Columbus.

I had only a mailing-list acquaintance with many of the guests, and I had to seek our information bureau, Mr. Fred Pickering, more than once during the banquet prologue. Possibly I should stop here to tell you that "Pick" knows the names, addresses, classes, occupations and telephones of all the Columbus alumni. When we doubt the correctness of our mailing lists, we see him. (I must ask him what memory course he recommends.)

From soup to coffee—we had no nuts—the banquet proper was a chef's masterpiece. (I had to think five minutes before I could think of a term that suggested we might have had more to eat than they did at the Cleveland banquet.) An Ohio State University orchestra played during the dinner. The executive committee had planned to have a dance following the dinner, but when they found so many good speakers were present, decided to eliminate that feature. Though opportunities to dance come frequently, we don't often have the privilege of hearing such celebrities as Dr. Scott, Tim Hogan, William Hoover, Sam McCune and William Williams all in one evening.

Timothy Hogan was the toastmaster. "Corrupted ideals and not illiteracy, are the cause of the present crime wave in this country," he said. "In my twenty-seven years of practice before the bar, I have never been called upon to defend an illiterate criminal." He did not mention whether or not he had been called upon to offer a defense of any of the speakers of the evening. Personally, I believe anyone could make a good speech after one of "Tim's" complimentary introductions.

Even Sam McCune didn't do so bad. He apologized for his fright by saying that his hands were too cold for him to speak well. And, be it said in his defense, the room was cold. Something had happened to the heat producer. Occasionally a faint churgle of steam could be heard pushing up through the steam pipes, but we could not feel any of it. After a few preliminary shivers our Alumni President forgot his fright and the absence of heat, and began to warm us all up. He told of his early studies at Ohio University—of his astronomy courses under Dr. Hoover in which he learned to distinguish planets from electric lights, of his trigonometry where he learned to construct backyard gardens for his wife. He wants us as Alumni, faculty and students to co-operate to make Ohio University a quality school, and not a "one night stand" between the country schools and some of the larger institutions. If he is willing to hold up the meetings of bank presidents and directors while he attends alumni meetings from Chicago to New York, I guess we ought to be willing to do our little bit to Co-operate—yes, with a capital C.

Toastmaster Hogan next called on Dr. William Hoover for an extemporaneous toast. I liked it better than I used to like his fourth Term Algebra speeches. I wasn't so nervous. "Reverence thyself" was the text of his brief remarks. He concluded by saying, "I am glad that Ohio University students are living up to that precept.

Professor Louis J. Addicott, as you know, represented the University. He brought us a cordial hand-clasp from the faculty and students at Athens, and incidentally showed us that some engineers can use words as well as concrete. As a preface to his remarks, Mr. Hogan read Dr. Chubb's letter explaining why you and he were unable to be present.

Dr. William H. Scott gave the principal address of the evening, the only one that was on the regular program, but, of course, not the only "regular" speech. This eminent and practical speaker took as his subject the improvement in educational facilities since his school days, days in which special permission had to be obtained to enter the college library, and when the laboratory method of instruction was unknown. Something of the interest of his remarks may be gained from the fact that Mrs. Mary E. Lee and T. Manasseh Cutler almost missed the last car to Westerville waiting to hear his conclusion.

Then the music program. "Bump" Jones, the Welsh marvel, originator of "conversation" music, was chairman of the program committee. The "fuller" the banquet the better he sings, but we had only coffee to drink, and he assigned himself only a small part of the program. Mrs. Ruth Chandler Collins sang a group of soprano solos, and Floyd Stanley Crooks a group of baritone selections. Though I see the name of F. S. Crooks in almost every issue of the Columbus Dispatch in connection with some distinguished gathering, I have not seen it lately in connection with any Ohio University function—so I hope you publish the entire program.

At our business session, Mr. William K. Williams of the Columbus bar and chairman of the preliminary organization, presided. Thomas A. Jones of the Ohio Supreme Court was elected president of the Columbus Chapter; Don McVay, member of the advisory board; Mrs. Robert F. Bishop, secretary; and Floyd Stanley Crooks, treasurer.

I trust you will find some of the foregoing account usable. I am enclosing a program for your reference. If you want a list of the persons present, you may get it from the secretary to whom I am turning over all records and correspondence to date. In conclusion I might say that the Columbus organization got a good start in the meeting of February 17. It was an enthusiastic gathering, and I think will stand solidly behind any movement for the betterment of our Alma Mater.

With best regards, I am,

Very truly,

H. H. SHIVELY

THE YOUNGSTOWN CHAPTER

The O. U. folks at Youngstown are getting ready for their annual reunion which they hope to have during the latter days of April. Write a letter at once to Superintendent W. M. Courson, East Youngstown and tell him you are coming.

CINCINNATI REVIVING

The Cincinnati Chapter, which has for several years been in a state of coma, is feeling the revivifying influence of DeForest Murch, who is trying to put into it again the breath of life. Mr. Murch is going to have a meeting in a few weeks or know the reason therefore. Address him right away at 1023 Kingston Place, Price Hill, Cincinnati. He needs your encouragement and help. Do not wait for him to look you up, but meet him more than half way.

Our Second Founders' Day

Those who attended the exercises on February 18, the one hundred and seventeenth anniversary of the establishment of the University, must admit the success of the occasion. In the first place there was a capacity house. Every seat in the auditorium and all available space on the platform was filled by students, alumni and Athens citizens.

The program opened with an overture by the University Orchestra under the direction of Prof. J. N. Hizey; the invocation was given by Rev. De Forest Murch, '15. After a few preliminary remarks, Acting President E. W. Chubb introduced Hon. E. J. Jones, '73, as the presiding officer. Mr. Jones made a brief address before calling upon the Girls' Glee Club to render a few selections. This was followed by the introduction of the speaker of the day, Hon. Hamilton Holt, Editor of the New York Independent.

Mr. Holt took as his subject "Our International Relations." During and after the war he visited Europe three times and could therefore, speak from the first hand. He graphically described his experiences on his various trips and held the undivided attention of his audience from start to finish. He was and is an advocate for a League of Nations and evidently does not believe that it is "scrapped." Partisans might take exception to some things he said in this connection, but since Mr. Holt is a Republican, he explained that he might be permitted to say some things a Democrat could not say. Whether you believed everything he stated or not, you were convinced of his honesty in a desire to unite the American people in a peace program after the warfare of partisanship displayed in a political campaign had passed away. In his address he fully criticized both parties and commended both. His address had a wholesome effect on the student body, for he aimed to show a broad, patriotic way by which the problems might and should be solved.

After the meeting in the Auditorium, one hundred and forty-two alumni and faculty members went to the Presbyterian Church where an elegant three-course luncheon was served by the ladies of that congregation.

Here the invocation was given by Rev. A. J. Hawk, '79, of Wellston.

In the absence of the President of the Alumni Association, Mr. Samuel McCune, the Alumni Secretary presided over the speaking part of the program.

It was a matter of great regret that Clyde F. Beery, who was to make the address of the hour, could not be present. The letter herewith given was read to the guests which is self-explanatory:

February 16, 1921

Mr. C. I. Martzloff,
Alumni Secretary,
Ohio University,
Athens, Ohio.

Dear Mr. Martzloff:—

On the 14th instant I wired you as follows:

"I regret exceedingly that a condition in my health has developed which in the opinion of my physician makes it inadvisable for me to undertake the trip to Athens, and accordingly it is necessary to ask to be released. I regret this the more because the time is so short. Until this evening I had fully intended to be with you, and had arranged to that end."

While there is little to add to my telegram, I intended to confirm it by letter at once, but have not until this time been situated so that I could dictate a letter and have felt it too great a task to write a letter in longhand.

Hardly anything could disappoint and pain me more than to be obliged to cancel my engagement, for not only had I anticipated the pleasure of meeting many of my acquaintances, but I had expended considerable time and effort in preparation and had hoped to have the satisfaction of meeting my responsibility with at least some measure of credit. And, although my preparation had not been fully completed, it had never for a moment occurred to me until the time of wiring you that I would not be able to be with you on the 18th instant, and all my engagements here had been arranged with a view to my absence the last four days of this week.

However, on Monday of the present week I found myself in a condition brought on by a prolonged attack of tonsillitis and laryngitis, together with the strain of trial work, which, in the opinion of my medical advisor, was demanding immediate rest, and accordingly I was compelled, with the greatest reluctance, to cancel my engagement.

Please accept my sincere thanks for your own kindness in this matter.

With the keenest regret I am,

Very truly yours,

C. F. BEERY

A letter of greeting from Anna Pearl MacVay '92 was also read at this time.

Here Judge L. G. Worstell '88, introduced a resolution which was unanimously approved:

"The Ohio University Alumni Association on this, the natal day of our Alma Mater, hereby expresses its sympathy to our esteemed fellow alumnus and, to many of us, revered teacher, Prof. D. J. Evans, in his sad affliction. We miss his genial presence at this festal board and we wish for him a speedy recovery."

Then followed a spicy program of an hour, without a dull moment in it. Miss Marjory Young, '21, gave two short readings. J. Claire Evans, 01, of Denver, Colorado; Superintendent, C. E. Stailey, '12, Athens; President Edward S. Parsons, our guest from Marietta College; and Clark Williams, 21, President of the Senior Class, made appropriate remarks.

The success of the luncheon feature of our second Founders' Day is due entirely to Estella Hobson Lash, '97, chairman, Helen Leach, '17, and Clara Blume, '17, the Committee.

EXPRESSES APPRECIATION

The Alumni Association takes this opportunity of expressing its appreciation to the management of the Green and White for its assistance in making the various features of Founders' Day successful. A special Founders' Day number was published containing much interesting and timely history of the University. The attitude of the Green and White was most helpful in bringing out the large crowds to the meetings.

Miss Irma Voight, Dean of Women, has just returned from a trip to New York and Atlantic City, where she attended two conventions in both of which the Dean participated. The New York meeting was a Conference for the discussion of vocational activities in colleges. Miss Voight, together with the Deans of Women from Northwestern University and of Mt. Holyoke, discussed "The Vocational Problem in College as It Relates Itself to Women."

At Atlantic City it was the Conference of the Collegiate Deans of Women and was attended by one hundred and ninety representatives. Here the Dean spoke before the college group on "The Intercollegiate Vocational Guidance Association." The program contained many distinguished educators and speakers, including Mrs. Catt on "The New Responsibilities for Women;" Dean Comstock of Smith College and President Thomas, of Bryn Mawr, also spoke. O. U. is fortunate in being able to have a representative at these important meetings.

GLEE CLUB AT COLUMBUS

The Girls' Glee Club, under the direction of Clara D. Thompson, will appear again at the Deshler Hotel, Columbus, at Easter. There will be two concerts given. Mrs. Thompson and her girls were at the Deshler last year. It is certainly a compliment to be invited by the management a second time. May the Bulletin suggest to our Columbus alumni that they make it a point to be present at these concerts and give our girls the glad hand.

LITERARY ACTIVITIES

Prof. F. C. Landsittel, '11, of Ohio State University, has prepared an instructive chart showing the sources of taxes, the methods of collection, the distribution of the same, and the administrative channels through which the public funds are distributed.

The February number of the Ohio Teacher contained a well written article by Hon. E. C. Eikenberry, Ex., president of the Preble County Board of Education and a member of the Board of Trustees of the Ohio University. The subject of the article was "The Centralized Schools of Preble County."

BENEATH THE ELMS

The Ohio University has recently been made a member of the American Association of Colleges. In the language of the poet:

"This is what we long have sought,
-And mourned because we found it not."

OUR MAIL BOX

ANNA PEARL McVAY, '92

7 W. 49th Street, New York City

"From the Bulletin just received I learn that the Founders' Day celebration will occur on Friday of this week, and that my old friend and fellow Athenian, Clyde Beery, is to be a speaker. How I should like to be there! This is merely a line to wish you great success in carrying out your plans for the Day and to greet you and any of the alumni assembled for the occasion."

A. O. MATHIAS, '16

1932 Fairfax Avenue, Cincinnati, O.

"I refuse to be considered as 'Lost, Strayed or Stolen,' so you will find inclosed a check.

"This is my fifth year in Cincinnati. I teach Agriculture in the new East High School. I had planned to return to Athens for the '16 reunion last June but was prevented by the work of closing up the school year, that being our last week."

J. R. MAYES, '09

Medina, Ohio

"I am enclosing a small contribution to help further the work of the O. U. A. A. If I should remit in accord to my feelings, as my debt to 'Old O. U.' I am afraid your goal for 1920-21 would be far surpassed and I would be bankrupt.

"Gee! but how I did enjoy that Cleveland reunion. I will be there next year if I have to engage the services of Uncle Sam's most expert aeronaut."

G. W. REED, '88

Urichville, Ohio

"I am enclosing herewith check for the benefit of the Alumni Association and its work.

"Mrs. Reed and myself have enjoyed the recent numbers of the Reminder. I particularly appreciated the story of how members of the Class of '88 put the other folks into their place at the New York Banquet. If such another gathering shall be assured a year from now and we shall know of it beforehand, we will be very liable to go and enjoy it, especially if Doc Skinner shall be there to tell some of the stories that Cal Humphrey enjoyed in the old days when the West Wing Boarding Club was in its heyday."

W. C. ORR WHITE, '17

124 Wood Street, San Marcos, Texas

"This year finds me occupying the chair of Chemistry in the Southwest

Texas Normal College, one of the five Normal Colleges of this state. Last year I was employed in the chemical laboratory of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., of Akron, and in 1918, Uncle Sam's Army was using me in the capacity of U. S. Inspector of high explosives. The year previous to that I was teaching chemistry in Iowa State College, where I see by the Bulletin several O. U. boys are located this year.

"Mother just sent me several Bulletins that had accumulated at home. They are so interesting that I have cut a Faculty meeting in order to read them. Please send future copies to me in care of the Normal College."

BELLE BISHOP, '04

13604 Graham Avenue, East Cleveland, Ohio

"I am teaching at the Spencerian Commercial School here in Cleveland and should like the 'O. U. Bulletin' sent here until June or until I send another change of address. The 'wanderlust' is getting me, and I must 'see the country' while my eyesight is good. Am 'looking Westward' for next year, but not advertising it here, as yet.

"I understand the Bulletin follows all its wondering children for which I am glad."

MAJEL LAWRENCE, '14

Jamestown, N. Dak.

"The Alumni Bulletin has been coming to me regularly and is as good as a letter from home.

"I am teaching in the Jamestown High School this year. So far North Dakota has not shown much of her 'wild and wooly' side. There has been practically no snow all winter until yesterday, but I am hoping that before I return to Ohio she will produce at least one good demonstration of a blizzard.

"I have no suggestions to make for the 'good of the cause' except to say that to me the most enjoyable feature of the Bulletin is the letters from the Alumni.

"With kindest regards to my former professor and college friends."

HORACE E. CROMER, '09

Petersburg, Va.

"Of all the words there are, by heck! The sweetest of these, enclosed find check.

"Associations one forms in college are undoubtedly the most pleasant and vivid formed throughout his lifetime.

It is very natural, therefore, that his interest in his alma mater and his associates should never wane. It is placing it very mildly to state that we enjoy the visits of the bulletin—the newest paper that comes to our desk.

"It is also placing it very mildly to state that our interest is very real in the selection of a new president, and our desire amounts almost to a prayer, that there be chosen for this place, a man who is a real leader with the highest scholastic standing, capable of bringing to our beloved O. U. that recognition we long to see her receive. So here's to wisdom that she may be your counsel, and here's to success that she may crown you, and here's to our Secretary, that he may know that we appreciate his efforts. Let's go!"

H. T. SUDDUTH

Professor of English, '84-88
Brecenridge, Texas

"You will probably be surprised to learn from the above heading that I am now in the land of oil, sunshine, jack rabbits, prairie dogs, cactus, mosquitos, mistletoe, and rattlesnakes, all of which I have seen with the exception of the rattlesnake and I have no desire to make their acquaintance. In my enumeration I find I have omitted Texas steers, a herd of forty or fifty of which were driven past the street on which I live the other day, the whole herd being jet black.

"As to sunshine I have never seen anything like the mellow, golden sunshine we have had ever since my coming to Texas which was early in December last. Many of the days have been summer-like with a temperature of from 60 to 70 degrees. As I write this there is no fire in the house and the windows and doors are open.

"But I did not sit down to write an account of Texas products and weather, but to ask you to change my address from Brooklyn to that given above. I do not know what is the fee for membership in the Alumni Association (I suppose I am entitled to honorary membership at least) and so am enclosing a small check as I wish to receive the Bulletins as they are issued. I am just learning to write with a typewriter as you will probably infer from the character of this letter and its mistakes.

"With best wishes for you and the old O. U."

"DADDY EVANS"

Athens, December 13.

My very dear friend, they told me I could not see you this time. I shall probably be back through this country some of these times—I am always surprising myself pleasantly—and then I am sure they will let me drop in and say howdy, even if—and this I hope is highly improbable—you are not actually out to meet me as we always met. I was mighty sorry to hear of the sudden and startling illness and of its very unpleasant and inconvenient results, which I feel sure are but temporary. We who have known you in sickness and in health, through (never evil) good report, have known your wonderful recuperative powers, and have the most abundant faith that you will come back to us as before. The beautiful spirit of you, and your really God-given sense of humor that helps keep you sweet, have done miracles for you, and for all of us by helping you, many a time . . . I was merely passing through the town and had not much time for anything except the usual little roadside errands. Even if I had been booked here I should have refused to speak, for you would not have been on hand to introduce me. And never have I spoken to a public gathering in this town without an introduction, that to me was always a benediction, by your good self.

Here's looking at you and praying for the quickest and finest recovery.

With very much love,
STRICKLAND GILLILAN.

EUGENE J. VOIGT

Class of 1913

After an illness lasting over six weeks in which he rallied time and time again after all hope had been given up, E. J. Voigt passed away Tuesday morning, March 18, 1920, at St. Mary's Hospital in Minneapolis. He had been unconscious almost all the time since he was taken to the hospital from Bimidji about six weeks before. During the time of his illness the doctors were unable to diagnose his case and specialist after specialist was called in to consultation. After an autopsy, Tuesday morning the cause of death was given out as a form of infantile paralysis.

E. J. Voigt was born in Ohio, thirty-three years ago and is the son of F. H. Voigt in Holgate, Ohio. He was a graduate of Ohio University and made a splendid record in athletics there. For three years Mr. Voigt was manual training teacher in the Anoka High School and his work as coach of the athletic teams was notable for the high level of sportsmanship and while he was developing championship teams, he also inspired the boys with the ideals of fair play. His life in the school and elsewhere was distinguished for its squareness.

In addition to these qualities, Mr. Voigt possessed an unusually genial disposition and few indeed were the men who had more friends in Anoka than did he.

In April, 1916, Mr. Voigt was married to Miss Beatrice Backus, of Bimidji, and she and one daughter, Betty Lou, aged two years and nine months, survive him. After leaving Anoka, Mr. Voigt was successful in his manual training work at Iowa City, and at Brookings, South Dakota, and only a few weeks ago had left the latter place to go into business at Bimidji. Mr. Voigt was a member of the Masonic order and of the Eastern Star.

The remains were taken to the home of his father at Holgate, Ohio, and interment was made at Defiance, Ohio.

NEWLY-WEDS

Miss Helen Burnham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burnham, of Milford Center, was married to Dr. Earl Huffer, of Toledo, on February 18. Mrs. Huffer graduated in 1917 and since then has been a teacher in the Shaw High School at East Cleveland.

DE ALUMNIS

'69.—In the last issue of the Bulletin the printer, or somebody announced the name of R. A. Hoffman's son-in-law, now president of the Dakota Wesleyan University, as Sherwood. It should have been Schermerhorn. We gladly make the correction.

'81—Mrs. M. G. Wright (Adelaide V. Smith) writes the Bulletin an interesting letter from Florida, where she and her husband live at the Mantanzas Pass Tell and Drawbridge, which connects the "Dixie Highway" and "Tasmania Trail," the cross-continent trail, with the Crescent Beach Resort on the Gulf shore of Esters Island.

'88—Anna Barton Porter field, Spokane, Wash., writes that her eldest son, Robert, is now a law student at Harvard.

'91—Mrs. L. C. McGinley (Annette Weihr,) of Hamilton, was a Founders' Day visitor on the campus. Her son, Llewellyn, is a student at the University.

'92—Editor Fred Bush and a bunch of Athenians have been spending their winter and their money in Florida. They seemed to have done some fishing, played more golf, and by the way of recreation incidentally aided President Harding in the selection of his Cabinet. Thus, O. U. is again honored.

'93—Superintendent, J. W. Jones, of the State School for the Deaf, has asked that his institution be taken from under the control of the State Board of Administration and be placed under the control of the proposed State Board of Education.

'93—Dr. S. K. Mardis was recently called before the Citizens Tax Committee of Ohio to speak on the "Uniform Rule," of which Dr. Mardis is an advocate.

'99—B. E. Morse, now located at Detroit, has lost his father, Wallace Morse, by death. Mr. Morse formerly lived at Albany. He died in Hot Springs, Ark.

'00—Mabel Zoe Wilson still holds the position of Librarian at the Bellingham State Normal School of Washington.

'01—Mary A. Batterson has received the appointment to the Circulation Department of the Tacoma, Wash. Public Library. She was recently appointed by the State Teachers' Association.

'14—A late number of the Allen-

'06—Eugene F. Thompson made his annual visit to the campus a few weeks ago. He brought with him his yearly donation to the Association, an act which always makes him a most desirable visitor in this sanctum. 'Gene is still selling "auto" supplies to the unsophisticated, for which he pulls down a salary entirely too large for a bachelor.

'10—Harley A. Tuttle is now the new Principal of the Shawnee High School.

'10—A. E. Livingston and Mabel Howell Livingston, '11, live with their two fine boys at 3731 Kanawha Street, Chevy Chase, Washington, D. C. Mr. Livingston is Pharmacologist in the United State Public Health Service.

'10—John J. Richeson, formerly Dean of the Normal College, is winning recognition as a student in Teachers' College, Columbia University. He is president of the Administration Club, a member of Phi Delta Kappa and also of "The Cawse Club." The last is a club to which only two members of the student body were elected, thus making it a very exclusive organization.

'10—Harold E. Cherrington, Dramatic Editor of the Columbus Dispatch, has been elected a member of the Kit-Kat Club, of Columbus, one of the strongest and most popular of the best men's clubs of the Capital City.

'11—Harriet L. Kelley is located at Coblenz, Germany, where she is doing welfare work with the Army of Occupation. She will remain at that work till June of this year, at least.

'11—Roy Smith, of Albuquerque, New Mexico, has undergone a great sorrow recently in the death of his wife. There is a little daughter, Mary Ann.

'12—Miss Gertrude Bartlett, of Dresden, has been elected vice-president of the County Normal School Directors Section of the State Teachers' Association at the holiday meeting in Columbus. Acting-president Chubb was made President of the English Section, and Charles W. Cookson, '95, Franklin County, received the chairmanship of the legislative committee.

'13—R. L. Morton, Director of the Extension Department of the Ohio University, has been appointed as a member of the Teachers' Recruiting Com-town, (Pa.) Morning Call has an interesting write-up of the success of one of our alumnae, Miss Carrie Junod, who is winning laurels for herself by being the successful manager of the Y. W. C. A. Cafeteria of that city.

"The feeding of a thousand people a day," the article goes on to say, "is a task of no small proportions. Yet, Miss Junod adds to a domestic science training, which she acquired in the Ohio University, the rarest qualities of business management, as is evident to any and all of the thousands who have patronized this place at times or are among its steady, delighted patrons." The Call goes on to say many other nice things about our Carrie, all of which the Bulletin approves.

'14—May Templar has recently been elected president of the Summit County Teachers' Institute. This is a large body of pedagogues over which Miss Templar is called upon to preside, something between 1000 and 1500 are registered. Some job! But Miss Templar is equal to it.

'14—Miss Lovina Caster, who has been in the yeoman service in the Navy during the war, has resigned and is now teaching in the schools of Prospect, Ohio.

'14—Superintendent Carl G. Pemberton and four of his teachers have resigned from the Oak Harbor Schools.

'14—Dr. Blaine Goldsberry, who served in the Navy during the war and since has been connected with the Lincoln Life Insurance Company, at Ft. Wayne, Ind., has concluded to come back home. He will shortly begin practice in Athens, having formed a partnership with Dr. J. T. Merwin.

'15—De Forest Murch, accompanied by his wife and De Forest, Jr., after having spent some time in Florida, came to Athens for the remaining portion of their vacation. The question often arises, "Why go to Florida when you can come to Athens?"

'16—Ensign A. C. Kerr, "Aleck" has been promoted by the U. S. Shipping Board to be director of operation of all the shipping ports on the Atlantic coast of Ireland. His headquarters will be with the U. S. Consul in Dublin. Good for "Aleck" say we!

'17—Wm. C. Hunnicutt is traveling for the S. R. Anderson Real Estate and Insurance Company, of Bluefield, W. Va.

'17—Trilba Rose Redfern writes us that on the day following the birth of her daughter, announced in another column, her husband, Eugene Redfern (Ex) died. At the time he was the Principal of the Hallsville Schools. Mrs. Redfern now holds the position her husband held and announces that as soon as the baby is old enough to enter the Kindergarten, she expects to return to Athens and finishing a regular four years' course.

'18—Arthur Buchanan brought his High School Basket Ball team over from Newport to participate in the recent basket ball tournament.

'19—Russell Finsterwald is the new City Solicitor for Athens. He was recently appointed to fill an unexpired term.

'20—Dean B. Copeland has taken a position in the new Midland Bank in Cleveland. This is Sam McCune's Bank.

'20—C. O. Ridenour, one of the Ridenour Quartette that has graduated at O. U., is now instructor in English at Penn State.

'20—Norma Vernon teaches English and Latin in the Piketon High School.

'20—Superintendent, W. M. Courson is supervising a very successful night school with a staff of fourteen teachers at East Youngstown.

George Kaler, Ex-student, has been elected valedictorian of his class at the American School of Osteopathy at Kirksville, Mo. We have a "hunch" that "Crum" will make some osteopath. If he gets twists on a fellow anything like the curves he used to put across the plate, one treatment will surely suffice. At least it will be all that the ordinary mortal can endure.

"GET ONE FRESHMAN!"

Send in to the President's office the name of that freshman whom you are persuading to go to Ohio University next September.

We shall try to keep an honor roll.

Homer H. Marshman writes from Cambridge, Mass., sending the name of the young man, and adding: "I hope he will qualify me in the 'Get One Freshman' list."

Watch this list!

Yours,

E. W. CHUBB

Since the last issue of the Bulletin, Ohio lost two games, the first to Capital at Columbus by a 27 to 24 score, and the second to Denison at Granville by a 25 to 23 score. Far be it from us to wish to offer an alibi for either defeat, however we think it might be well to add that in the Capital game, Ohio was without the services of King, who is one of the best forwards in the state. On account of an injury received in practice he was out during the entire game. Van Sickle, one of the greatest defensive centers ever playing at Ohio, was injured in the early part of the first half and that helped contribute to Ohio's defeat. Coach Livingston of Denison said that the Ohio-Denison game was the hardest fought game ever played on his floor. Ohio lost by one basket. Since winning from Ohio, Denison has won from Ohio State at Columbus by a larger score than which she defeated Ohio at Granville. While Mt. Union is technically leading the conference race, her schedule has been such that she will not be considered as a contender for the Ohio Conference Championship, and if Ohio wins from Wittenberg at Athens March 11, she will have a clear title to the Conference Championship. This game, which will be our last game of the season, bids fair to be the hardest fought game ever played on an Ohio floor. If Wittenberg wins, her title to the Conference Championship will be undisputed.

The base-ball schedule for 1921 follows:

March	31—Marshall at Huntington.
April	1—Marshall at Huntington.
"	9—Capital at Athens.
"	15—Miami at Oxford.
"	16—Univ. of Cin'ti. at Cin'ti.
"	22—Marshall at Athens.
"	23—Marshall at Athens.
"	29—Denison at Athens.
May	6—Denison at Granville.
"	7—Capital at Columbus.
"	13—Univ. of W. Va. at Morgantown.
"	14—Univ. of W. Va. at Morgantown.
"	21—Hiram at Athens.
"	27—Wooster at Athens.
"	28—Wooster at Athens.
"	30—Ohio State at Athens.
June	3—Otterbein at Athens.
"	4—Akron at Athens.

In addition to the above games a spring training trip will be taken South and several southern colleges will be played.

Miami defeated Wesleyan at Delaware. Wesleyan defeated Wittenberg at Springfield. Ohio defeated Miami at Oxford.

What about Ohio and Wittenberg? Who knows?

ODDS AND ENDS

Mrs Joe Pickering, formerly Luella Harvey, has loaned to the Alumni office a picture of the "co-eds" at O. U. in 1875. There was an even dozen.

One day ten of them got together and had their picture taken.

The group consisted of the following: Jessie C. Welch, Lena Junod, Ella McDougall, Edith Vorhees, Mary Ames de Steiguer, '79, Emma K. Dana, '78, Ella Boyd, '76, Emma Hibbard, Luella Harvey and Hattie Guthrie. Of these Jessie Welch, Ella McDougall, Mary de Steiguer, Emma Hibbard and Hattie Guthrie are dead.

Lena Junod is now Mrs. W. C. Brown of Olathe, Kansas, Edith Vorhees lives in Los Angeles, California; Emma Dana, '79, teaches in Cleveland; Ella Boyd, '76, is Mrs. J. M. Davis and lives at Rio Grande and Luella Harvey is Mrs. J. L. Pickering of Athens.
